Winner In English Derby

Norway Man Wins Second Money

George F. Hill of the Norway Buick Co. is in line for drawing a huge slice from a ticket in the sweepstakes purse in the Irish Derby at Epsom Downs. His horse, Orpen, won second money in the race, Wednesday.

A cable Saturday evening informed him that his ticket in the Irish Free State Hospital Sweepstakes had drawn a favorable place on Orpen, a 100-6 chance.

Another cable from London was a cash offer of $7,000 for half the ticket, believed to be worth $10,000 or more. According to reports the holder of the lucky strip was on line of winning up to $145,000 on first money. George held onto his ticket.

In this great sporting event a fortune of $13,530,025 was subscribed to the gigantic lottery from all parts of the world, but mainly from Great Britain and Ireland, the United States and Canada.

The nineteen holders of the ticket on the horse that wins the derby will receive $145,000 each. The nineteen holders of the horse that runs second will receive $72,750 each and the nineteen holders of the third horse will receive $48,500 each.

The 570 persons holding tickets on the remaining horses, regardless of where they finish in the derby, or even start, will receive $4,041 each. There will be 3,800 major consolation prizes and 1,900 minor ones.

Mr. Hill is a horseman of more than local reputation and a trustee of Oxford County Agricultural Society, therefore is getting considerable kick from the situation thrust upon him. He will not even venture a guess on his share to be drawn from the pool after the shakedown.

GAME PROTECTORS ARE EDUCATORS

Freeland Howe, who is an enthusiastic fisherman and nature student, submitted the following clipping for publication:

"How Wisconsin is Securing Observance of Game Laws" was the subject discussed by Paul Kelleter, Director, Wisconsin Conservation Commission, recently at the Seventeenth American Game Conference, held at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

"The old-time game wardens, who stalked poachers only when there were no votes to stalk have now become college graduates and changed their title to 'conservation Wardens'," he said. "In Wisconsin the staff of wardens is not only composed entirely of highly intelligent and educated men, who give lectures in every school of the State as part of their work, but boasts one warden who speaks seven languages."

"This growth of game protection from a small political job to one of the most active and effective elements in the conservation and restoration of America's depleted wild life was related by Mr. Kelleter. He described the civil service examination for wardens in Wisconsin as the most difficult in the State personnel program.

Realizing that wardens in the future will probably function as educators of the public in conservation matters, Mr. Kelleter said, "Wisconsin has inaugurated qualification tests, which a very small percentage of applicants have been able to pass. Of 185 men taking the examinations last year, only nineteen were certified as satisfactory.

"A written test consisting of 250 questions on every phase of conservation and law enforcement is one of the hazards. Each candidate is then called upon to classify thirty mounted birds and the pelts of twenty animals, and then from colored prints to name thirty-five varieties of fish and sixty-five native birds and animals. A rigid oral quiz follows. And last comes a temporary trial period with experienced wardens in the field and a trial job of the candidates for three months."

June Wedding

Hanscom-Russell

The first of the June weddings took place, Monday evening, June 1, and although very quiet, it was most impressive in its simplicity. The ceremony was performed at the home of the officiating clergyman, Rev. Conard B. Rheiner, pastor of the First Universalist church. The contracting parties were Miss Ruth Rozilla Russell and Norman Clair Hanscom. Lohengrin's wedding march was played and the double ring service was used. The bride's gown was white satin, evening length, and her veil was caught with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of bride roses and lilies of the valley. Her maid of honor, Miss Clara F. Adkins, wore yellow and white satin and her bridesmaid, Miss Margaret L. Russell, a sister, wore blue satin. The gowns of both attendants were evening length and they carried huge bouquets of white lilacs. The best man was Clyde A. Russell, brother of the bride. Immediately after the ceremony the bridal couple left for parts unknown, the bride traveling in skipper blue ensemble suit with matching accessories. They will be at home to their friends after June 8th at 10 Crescent street, where they have their home in readiness.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Fred Kilgore, Beal street. She was born in Union, N. H., and later lived in Harrison, where she received her early schooling, later coming to Norway, where she attended high school and graduated in 1928. For two years she was deputy town clerk and was the first and only woman to open Norway town meeting and read the warrant, this occurring in March 1931. She is employed at the law office of Robert B. Dow, and the town clerk and insurance office of David A. Klain. Mrs. Hanscom is a member of the First Universalist church.

The groom is the son of Mrs. Everett Emerson of Enfield, N. H. He is a native of Lee, where he received his education at the academy. At the present tim he is employed at the Norway Shoe Company. After the announcement of her engagement, Miss Russell was given a pre-nuptial shower, and many fine gifts were included in the gift box. She has also been the recipient of many other useful presents. A host of friends are extending congratulations.

Hunting and Fishing Movies

Arthur Tucker, president of the Norway Fish and Game Association, has completed arrangements for a free movie show at Norway Opera House, Friday evening, June 19, at 8 o'clock daylight time.

Several reels of actual life in our Maine woods and along our streams will be shown by Joseph S. Stickney, Maine Supervisor of Game Wardens, and George J. Stobie, Maine Commissioner of Inland Fisheries. The pictures have been screened at the sportsmen's show and at fish and game association meetings in various states. Everywhere has come to Augusta letters of appreciation, also expressing surprise that the Maine woods produced so many wonderful things not told in nature books.

Everything is free and a collection will not be taken. This evening of instruction is sponsored by the local fish and game association, for some time affiliated with Oxford County and the state organizations. There are now about 80 members comprising Norway and Paris anglers, together with a long list of prominent non-resident fishermen who appreciate the good work of stocking and protecting streams and lakes in this vicinity.

Well supplied with funds, the association has accomplished much to improve fly fishing and create a spirit of good sportsmanship. The old practice of killing far beyond the needs and wasting an important natural resource is fast disappearing. Education and alert wardens are doing much to bring our streams back hoping, eventually, to put Maine in the first place. The splendid showing at Pennesseewassee the past few weeks when more than thirty square tails were killed, is a direct result of past activities of the Norway Fish and Game Association.

Everybody will receive a welcome at the picture show, the ladies are especially invited. The state officers will answer questions and give suggestions along the lines of better hunting and fishing.

Mr. Towle of Jamaica Plain, Mass., the new manager at the Novelty Turning Co., has moved his family to Norway and will occupy the down stairs apartment at the Arthur Tucker house on Cottage street.

Observatory On Pike Hill

Efforts Being Made to Locate Harvard's 60 Inch Telescope in Norway

A movement has gained some headway in Norway to have the new 60 inch telescope of Harvard College mounted on the summit of Pike's Hill.

Reports that Harvard officials desire to locate a new observatory some distance from the lights, smoke, and vibrations of a city, gave William C. Leavitt an idea. He passed this along to Stephen B. Cummings, our local astronomer, as a suggestion that Norway can furnish an ideal spot for this massive reflector, contemplated by Harvard, and Pike Hill was mentioned.

Mr. Cummings was alert at once and has performed some home missionary work. He has the support of Hugh Pendexter, the writer; Dr. Chas. A. Stephens, also a writer; V. Akers, artist; Congressman Donald B. Partridge, Prof. George R. Howe, scientist, and others. After the news spreads, Don C. Seitz of Brooklyn, N. Y., a former Norwayite, and other prominent men and women, no doubt, will send testimonials to Mr. Cummings in support of the project. Harvard officials will be invited to Norway for an inspection of the place.

Mr. Cummings points out that we have perfect atmospherical conditions, absence of glaring lights, few earth tremors and a 360 degree horizon.

WILLIAM J. OLMSTEAD

After five years of failing health, due to arthritis, William J. Olmstead died suddenly of pneumonia and peritonitis at his home on Main Street, May 31.

He was born at Bath, N. B., March 31, 1872, the son of William J. and Clarissa Olmstead and lived at Caribou for several years. He learned the shoemaker's trade of his father and worked on the Bangor & Aroostook Railroad. After working in Providence, R. I., he went to Milan, N. H., on a farm. In 1902 he married Miss Addie Learned of Waterford and for eight years Mr. Olmstead was employed in the Rolfe mill at East Waterford.

They moved to Norway fourteen years ago, where he found employment with Chadbourne & Clifford and was truck driver for C. B. Cummings & Sons Co., until five years ago.

He was a member of the Baptist church at Caribou and had been active in the Loyal Order of Moose of Norway.

Besides his widow, he leaves two young sons, Lewis and Charles, and three brothers, Adelbert A. and Fred Olmstead of Norway and Harvey Olmstead of Caribou.

Rev. G. Howard Newton officiated at the funeral, held in the home Tuesday afternoon. Relatives were the bearers. Burial was in Elm Vale Cemetery at South Waterford. There were many beautiful flowers.

TEE TO TRAP

Choose your friend wisely,
Test your friend well;
True friends, like rarest gems,
Prove hard to tell.
Golf with him, if you would
Know your friend well.

The clover rough inspired that, but it's a poor game that has no penalty.

Even bridge has had its "causes celebre."

I've no doubt, Bob McCready would be pleased to acknowledge your check.

If I ever get out of this masterpiece of monstrosity, George has put in front of No. 2, I'll mail mine.

In spite of bad weather, the pages of the Visitors' Book are filling up.

Many improvements on the house are planned for theirs, and the members', comfort.

W. W. Chute is to be admired for his power of resistance, working up there all day and having a bag of clubs in the back of his "Junior Lincoln" must be an awful temptation at times.

I hear Frank has selected his golf equipment, it's now up to you, Ralph and George.

Get busy, the whole world is listening in.

Come to think of it, I owe the Pro a reddy tee, I borrowed from him last Labor Day.

I'd better mail it now as he has twice already "treated" me to a little "free speech" about it.

I couldn't hit the old ball,
I can't hit the new,
I think I'll try a football
And see what I can do!

I guess I'll take the pro's advice and concentrate on checkers.

Go Through.

If there was only a little more power behind that slice, it would come right back.

Oh, Heck! The season is young yet.

I'm picking up.

Friday evening over one hundred relatives and friends gave a surprise shower to Bertha Kimball, in the Grange Hall. The affair was opened by a playlet, Mabel's Aunt, given by five ladies of Harrison, then dancing was enjoyed for a time, after which the door opened and Dwight, young son of Holden Sawin, as minister, with the bride and groom, Wendell Pike and Norma Rellihan, young cousins of the bride-to-be, followed by a beautifully decorated wheelbarrow in pink and white, loaded to its capacity with gifts, pushed by another cousin, Stanley Brown. They came to the strains of the wedding march, played by Dorothy Holden, stopping in front of the surprised couple. Later, a large table laden with gifts, as well as a filled box, was brought in by the men. Bertha and Charles had a busy time unwrapping these many bundles and it was found they had 130 pieces of linen, glassware, cooking utensils and household furnishings. Ice cream and cake was served in the dining room and the bridal cake was cut and all enjoyed a piece, served by Miss Kimball and Mr. Sanborn, although the married folks were compelled to wait until single folks were served, which caused a great deal of fun. The young girls of the village planned the shower and it was indeed a nice affair. Its memory will be sweet to them in the years to come.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

On the death of Mrs. Louisa Knight, who passed to a higher life May 6, 1931.

Whereas it has pleased our loving Heavenly Father to again enter our ranks and remove from George M. Knight W. R. C. our oldest charter member, who for a long time was one of our most active members, and

Whereas, it is but just that a fitting recognition of her many virtues should be had, therefore be it

Resolved: That the universal sorrow which follows this not wholly unexpected death, attest more strongly than any language can express the deep hold she has upon the affections, confidence and respect of many friends.

Resolved: That we respectfully tender to the family of our deceased sister in this severe affliction the assurance of our heartfelt sympathy.

Resolved: That our charter be draped in mourning for thirty days, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, a copy spread on our records, and a copy sent to the Norway Advertiser for publication.

'Tis hard to break the tender cord of love
that binds the heart,
'Tis harder still to speak the words, must we forever part?
Dear sister, we have placed thee in the peaceful grave's embrace,
But thy memory will be cherished, till we see in Heaven thy face.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Our Heavenly Father has again entered Evergreen Rebekah Lodge, No. 15, I. O. O. F., and borne to the Grand Lodge above, our oldest and dearly beloved sister, Louisa A. Knight.

Our Sister Knight was a lady of rare qualities, always doing for others, and her happy smile and cheery greeting will long be remembered.

Resolved: That we emulate her virtues and loving deeds in the years to come, as she has done in the past.

Resolved: That we extend to the bereaved family our deepest sympathy and commend them to the loving Father of us all for comfort and strength in this sad hour.

Resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our records, one sent to the family of our sister, and one sent to the Norway Advertiser for publication, and that our charter be draped in mourning for thirty days.

"Passing out of the shadow
Into a clearer light,
Slipping behind the curtain
Getting a clearer sight.
Passing out of the shadow
Into eternal day.
Why do we call it dying,
This sweet going away?"

KEZAR FALLS

Memorial Services—Clubs Entertained—Holiday Guests.

Rev. Arthur A. Callaghan's text last Sunday morning was from the third chapter of Ephesians, ninth verse, "And to make all men see what is the fellowship of the mystery which from the beginning of the World hath been hid in God, who created all things by Jesus Christ." In the interests of human brotherhood, men have strongly led for months and years and given their lives in the interests in the endeavor of saving the lives of their fellowmen. "It May be Mine" was an exceedingly beautiful solo sung by Mrs. Frank Emery at the close of the sermon.

Under the leadership of the Carroll S. West Post, No. 123, American Legion, Memorial Day was fittingly observed in Kezar Falls. At 2.30, various units assembled at the Milliken schoolhouse; fifteen minutes later, the parade toward the cemetery began. Our only Civil War veteran, B. F. Boston, rode in an automobile at the head of the procession. He was followed by the Legion firing squad the combined bugle and drum corps of the Richard White Post, No. 55; the Carroll West Post, No. 123; other ex-service men; Masons; Knights of Pythias; Red Men; the Kiwanis Club, and church organizations; standard bearers, school children and Scouts.

At the cemetery, the speaker, Frederic Hobbs, of Alfred, stood near the car which held B. F. Boston, the Civil War veteran. Mr. Hobbs told his audience to come closer to him if they wanted to hear better, for he was staying beside Mr. Boston so he might hear all that was said. The flags, the roll of the drums, the bugles, the soldierly bearing of the warriors, the words of the speaker, Rev. Arthur Callaghan's prayer, Rev. Bert Shorey's benediction leaves the day as one to be long remembered with reverence and thanksgiving.

Tuesday evening, May 26th, Mrs. W. T. Norton entertained the L. M. R. C. and the Twenty-One Club, thirty-seven being present. Supper was served at 6.30, followed by program:

Children's Corner

Letter from Carroll

Bryant Pond, Me., June 2, 1931.

Dear Aunt Betsy: I am glad to hear that you liked by trout poem. I am writing a letter for the "Children's Corner" telling my age and one thing another.

I am 12 years old and will be 13 on June 25, 1931. I have three sisters and two brothers. There are six children in our family, three boys and three girls. I will give their real names and their nick-names, beside of them with their age, from the oldest down: Lawrence Gilbert, "Rat", 15; Georgie Anna, "Becky", 14; Carroll Estes, "Tom", 12; Linona Alice, "Pig", 10; Russell Frank, "Joe", 9; Viva Willadeen, "Pillie", 6; my mother's name is Eva Yates, "Ma", 33 years. My fathers name is Estes Gilbert Yates, "Pa", 47 years. On the other paper you will see a poem—a short one, too.

The Dread of Poetry

When I am writing a funny poem,
I have to think and think,
And yet I cannot write,
Especially with pen and ink.
But after I have thought a while,
With might and all my main,
The poetry comes back to me,
Quite ready and quite plain.

—Carroll Yates.

Norton's Letter

June 2, 1931.

Dear Mr. Sanborn: I have been reading the children's column in your Advertiser, which I enjoy very much. I am the oldest of five children, I am ten years old and go to Harrison Village to school every day, on the big bus here. I like my school and teacher very much. I am in the VI grade.

We live on a small farm. I have two sisters and two brothers. I have planted a garden this year, I have vegetables and a few strawberry plants set out. I am sending you a list of words I got from the word "Advertiser." Just wanted to try my luck once. I am yours, Master J. Norton Day, Rt. 3, Harrison, Me., care W. Day.

P. S.—I go fishing quite a lot on the lakes at Harrison, both Long Lake and Crystal Lake. I have some good luck and bad luck, too. I enjoy it.

AUNT BETSY'S LETTER

Dear Corner Cousins:—A short time ago, Delphina Whitman told us about a day when everything went wrong. Well, I just had a day when everything I touched simply went blooey! I cut out a dress wrong and when I righted that mistake I sewed part of it wrong side out! And then I put in the sleeves wrong! What a day! Let's shake hands, Delphina.

John Stearns, Jr. wrote a very interesting story about Fryeburg Academy, which I am sure is interesting to older folks as well as youngsters in the Corner. Such articles as this one of John's makes the Corner an educational zone as well as one of pleasure. While we are on this historical subject, I'll tell you about two lakes down in Winthrop, Me. An old Indian chief had two daughters, Mara and Anna. Now Mara could not cook very good and Anna was an excellent hand at cooking. So the old chief named two lakes for the daughters—one is Maranocook and the other is Annabessacook.

Who knows the old Indian Legend about Mt. Mollyockett? Long ago I heard it, but it has slipped my mind.

Well schools are closing their doors this week until September. Picnics are the chief topics of most of the pupils—picnics and promotion slips! I wonder what all you young people are going to do all these weeks of vacation? My school children are making enough plans to last a half dozen vacations. Fishing seems to be the order of the day for the boys. Years ago "fishing" used to be just "fishing", but nowadays it's considered an art.

We seem to have the "Childrens Corner" pretty well established. So now lets start a Birthday Club. Each one send in your birth date, and when one of the members' birthday rolls around, we will send a card of best wishes. Couldn't we?

Birthdays are very important affairs in my family. Each one has a decorated cake with his or her name and age. We play games and hide kisses—the candy ones— I mean. And in general, we have a wonderful time. My gang hasn't reached the age yet to demand an elaborate party. As long as there are plenty of "eats" all is well!

Last week I promised Thelma Andrews my molasses cake recipe. Here it is: ¾ cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup molasses, ½ cup lard, 2 teaspoons soda in 2½ cups flour, ½ teaspoon each of clove, cassia and ginger. Add 1 cup of hot water the last thing. This is an old favorite and never has failed me yet. Served with whipped cream it makes a wonderful dessert, too.

When Barbara Scribner starts in high school next fall at Oxford, she enters a career that in later years she will realize is to be one of her happiest. Four long years in high school—that after all prove to be four short ones, form the mold wherein Barbara's ambitions are to be poured. Truly the features the schools of today carry are so much more advanced than in the past and a high school education means worlds to young people. Good luck to you, Barbara!

Will be looking for some more letters next week. Lovingly.—Aunt Betsy.

FARMALL SAVINGS INVESTMENT PLAN

A Special Plan for Potato Growers

This New Plan Lets Every Responsible Potato Grower Pay for His Farmall with Just a Part of the Savings the Farmall Will Make

ABUNDANT evidence in the form of actual cost records proves that farmers using Farmall tractors and full Farmall equipment are producing potatoes for approximately one-half the government average for similar localities. The savings made by the Farmall tractor and equipment vary in different districts, running all the way from $14 to $45 an acre.

We are so confident that there are thousands of additional farmers who can get proportionate results with the Farmall that we are announcing the FARMALL SAVINGS INVESTMENT PLAN, under which responsible farmers can purchase a Farmall and Farmall equipment now and meet the first payment this fall with just a part of the savings made possible by the new equipment in the production of their potato crop—with two more years to pay the balance.

Here is an opportunity for you to take advantage of Farmall savings during the balance of the potato growing and harvesting season—operating fast-working planters, cultivators, sprayers, dusters, and diggers—and be ready next year to make the maximum saving throughout the entire year. And don't overlook the extra savings you will make in the handling of your hay and grain and all other crops requiring power.

Every one of these jobs can be done faster and at lower costs with a Farmall and Farmall equipment, effecting substantial savings on every crop, yet all you pay is part of the savings made on the potato crop alone as a first payment this fall.

See your McCormick-Deering dealer for full details of the FARMALL SAVINGS INVESTMENT PLAN. A convincing demonstration of the Farmall and seasonable equipment will be made on your own farm on request.

Views of the News

By Chicagoan

When Don Marquis set the "Old Soak" to the task of writing a "History of the World", that amiable character started his chronicle by asserting that our interest in the past centered about what the people of the ancient days "et and what they drunk." I find myself in disagreement with the "Old Soak" in that what people eat and drink concerns me very little. But as I read the Advertiser each week and reflect on the happenings in and about Norway, what those who live in its columns say and think, holds me fast.

Then what would be talked about at the celebration of the 50th birthday anniversary of Mrs. Grant Abbott if not the days that were, but are no more? Of wedding days, so many years ago; of children, now grown and successful, with families of their own; of old time quilting bees and other frolics; of love affairs, some ending in sadness, and some in joy; of all in all, how fascinating is life, that it holds our interest over such a span of years. Ah yes, my friends, I know that time was rolled backward on that night. And that when the joyous event was over, there were many who remarked, as they prepared for the homeward journey, "'Tis hard to believe that so many years have flown by."

But what do fishermen talk about? I could tell you of some of the things, for I'm a devoted angler myself. But better than reading anything I might write, is to hunt up Charles Snow, Guy M. Monk, Frank P. Davis and Edgar F. Corliss—and George Tubbs, Frank McAllister, Homer Aldrich, and Herbert Butler, who, according to the Advertiser recently cast mean hooks into the waters. They'll tell you that the day selected was not the best kind of a one for fishing: that their bait was a little faulty; and that there aren't so many fish in those waters after all. But due to their superior ability in handling hook, line and sinker, they were able to come home with a good sized catch. Don't question any of the stories told. The reason you didn't share in the haul made, is because every fisherman has so many friends that it is impossible to catch enough fish on one trip to pass them around to all. Next time you may fare better—and so may I!

Now, Millie, the office vamp, is paid for working, but somehow gets by because of her prattle. She's at my elbow now, asking if the Advertiser has arrived. When I inquired as to the cause of her interest in the paper, she gasped, "How in the world am I going to learn when there'll be another dance at Brownfield, and who is there to tell me of the gay time that was had at the last one, if I can't get a chance to read the Advertiser? Why, if I'd wait for you or "Grouchy Gus" to show me anything that was printed about a good time, I'd die an old maid; I'd never even get a chance to be left waiting at the church.

I really believe that Grouchy Gus experienced a love affair with some South Sea Island beauty in his youth, only to learn that the dusky maid was already the wife of a cannibal chief; or else, when still younger, that he ate too heavily of green cucumbers and has never fully recovered from the colic that followed. Anyway, when I told him about last week's paper announcing that Clarence Files of East Stoneham and A. C. Foster of Buckfield had new Fords, he merely grunted, "Well, when you see me driving one of those things, it'll be when all the other machines are off the road." Millie, however, views the new machines in quite another light. She has already asked me if either one is a single man.

Not only did Rev. Clifford Cross move the hearts of those who listened to his exhortations at the No. Fryeburg Church last Sunday, but all who read last week's paper know of his zeal. The fervent words of the preacher; and the "Amens" of his congregation, were in my ears as I read last week's paper. And they told me of serious men and women turning from the pleasures of this world and seeking eternal rest for their weary souls in the life that is yet to come.

Oxford County Pomona Hears About Maine's Publicity

In an address before the Oxford County Pomona Tuesday, Clarence C. Stetson, Chairman of the Maine Development Commission, stated that this years advertising was bringing a large number of inquiries than any previous campaign conducted by the Commission. This Mr. Stetson attributed to the use of the most up-to-date form of copy in the set-up of the advertisements and to the cumulative effect of the years of placing the name of Maine before the American public.

Mr. Stetson then outlined the broad scope of the Commission's program and the interest of the Commission, not only in recreation, but in agriculture and industry. He explained in detail how the State's recreational advertising campaign was handled, speaking especially of the splendid cooperation given the Commission by the Publicity Bureau in recreational matters.

Mr. Stetson said in part:—

"Judging from an editorial which appeared in the Portland Press Herald on Friday, May 29th, regarding the splendid prospects for the summer business in Maine, there is evidently some misunderstanding as to the sponsorship of the recreational advertising campaign of the State of Maine. The editorial reads as follows:

'The Maine Publicity Bureau record shows that 3,100 more persons have written for information as to recreational matters so far this season than in any previous year. This is attributed to the advertising campaign which the Bureau has been carrying on and it indicates a much greater interest in what Maine has to offer the vacationist than has existed heretofore.'

"The splendid showing so convincing of the power of the proper advertising of the attractions of our state," said Mr. Stetson, "must be gratifying to every citizen, because the agency which supervises and places the effective publicity is the Maine Development Commission.

"As a matter of fact, since 1927, the recreational advertising has been sponsored and paid for by the Maine Development Commission out of appropriations made by the Legislature and contributions received by the Commission from certain patriotic cities and towns of the State. The details have been planned by a cooperative committee of the Commission. The advertising campaign is therefore the campaign of the State and of every citizen in the State. The Commission has, this year, budgeted $30,000 for this campaign. The advertisements bear the official seal of the State of Maine and the name of the Maine Development Commission, as they are the sponsors of the advertising. The coupons attached to the advertisements are addressed to the State of Maine Publicity Bureau as the Bureau cooperates by handling the individuel inquiries to the advertising. The Bureau is a private organization, supported by private contributions and certain funds advanced by the Development Commission for stationery and postage and additional clerical hire in rush seasons.

"The two organizations in this phase of the work, if I may use a business term, correspond to the wholesaler and the retailer—the Maine Development Commission being the wholesaler, the Maine Publicity Bureau the retailer.

"Again let us see what happens when the inquiries are received:

"The coupon attached to each ad. reads, 'Please send me free literature on Maine.' The pamphlets which are distributed by the Bureau to the individual inquiries sent in answer to the ads. of the Maine Development Commission, are prepared and paid for by the Commission out of moneys received from the Legislative appropriation and contributions from the cities and towns. The Commission also prepares and pays for the envelopes in which the literature is distributed by the Bureau to individual inquiries. Likewise the Commission pays for the postage used by the Bureau in the distribution of this literature and the additional clerical force employed by the Bureau in putting the literature up. Also inquiries requiring written answers from the Bureau are typed upon paper prepared and paid for by your Commission. Again to use a business term, we have the wholesaler, represented by the Commission, and the retailer, represented by the Publicity Bureau.

"I make this detailed explanation as I feel that it is only fair to all citizens that they know how the appropriation is spent with such splendid results. They also should realize what splendid cooperation the State and the Development Commission are receiving from the Maine Publicity Bureau, without which Maine could not, unless additional funds were appropriated, afford to conducts its recreational advertising campaign to the extent that it is now carrying it on.

"The two organizations are working shoulder to shoulder for the general good of the State and it is well to realize the value of the services of each. The Commission is indeed appreciative of the splendid cooperation of the Maine Publicity Bureau in handling the individual inquiries to the recreational advertsing campaign of the State of Maine.

"In this advertising campaign we must not forget that we are in a highly competitive field in which our rivals are spending hundreds of thousands and in some cases, millions, as against our more limited appropriation. The recreational business is one deserving the recognition and support of every citizen of Maine. It shows a marked degree of stability even in depression years. It should be encouraged and the activities of the agencies which are working for the good of the whole State should continue to receive the splendid cooperation which they are now getting from both public and private sources."

BRYANT FOND

Once more Memorial Day has passed. In our little cemetery there was a demonstration which proved that those whom death had clasped in her icy embrace are not forgotten by those who still feel the vacancy of the departed loved ones. This was shown by the display of many beautiful flowers throughout the cemetery and by large numbers who attended the services.

It seems that there is not one Civil War Veteran left in our midst, the last one being Gilman Whitman, who always helped so much in those services, whose absence was felt as well as noticing the personal vacancy.

To those who have attended these services for many years it was gratifying to know that although Quimby Perham is not in the best of health, he was still able to give his service in the way of singing, and it was with silent pleasure that we listened to the voices of Mr. and Mrs. Perham and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis as they rendered appropriate music with Mrs. Davis as organist and we wish for them that they may be able to give their services in this way for many years to come.

In these days when we hear all kinds of voices over the radio we are always glad to compare the talents in our home town with those in other places and we like to see our home talent given due recognition.

The way the children took their parts showed careful training by their teachers, of which Miss Dorothea Billings took a large part in the training.

We owe many thanks to Walter Gordon, who willingly gives his services in public affairs, for people who will give their services in the different offices of the town, make our little town a more desirable place to live in.

You are gone—
But we have not forgotten,
We miss you day by day;
The days are long,
And the nights are lonely,
Since you went away.
Sometimes in dreams,
I seem to hear you calling,
Calling to me;
We may be with you
When the leaves are falling—
Falling from bush and tree.

Sweet sleep of peace,
That knows no waking—
Earthly joys and sorrows
Forever past,
We bring thee flowers,
To ease the heart that's aching,
And give us comfort,
Only while they last.

Gone are the joys—
"The Golden Bowl is broken",
And all our pleasures
Mingle with the past,
When, by His hand,
"The silver cord be loosed."
We'll meet again
In the better life, at last.

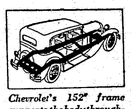
Matchless economy with six-cylinder smoothness

"Better than 20 miles to the gallon." "Its cost-per-mile is the lowest of any car." "Never have to add oil between crankcase changes." "Drove from Ohio to California on a repair expense of $1.05." "It just runs and runs and runs."

—typical comments from owners of the Chevrolet Six



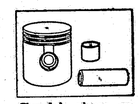
Chevrolet's 152" frame supports the body throughout its entire length

Why is it that Chevrolet—a big, powerful, smooth-running six—actually costs less to operate and maintain than any other car you can buy? The answer lies in five outstanding factors of Chevrolet economy:

1. Efficient Engine Design makes Chevrolet fuel consumption so low that 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline is nothing unusual for a Chevrolet owner.

2. Modern Chassis Design—as evidenced by Chevrolet's long heavy frame, four parallel-mounted springs, and smooth-running six-cylinder engine—increases the ability of the Chevrolet Six to run dependably, day after day.

3. Excellence of Manufacture also adds to Chevrolet dependability and long life. Chevrolet pistons, for instance, are built so carefully, and held true to such close limits of precision, that many owners have gone 20,000 miles or more without having their motors opened for major servicing.



Chevrolet's pistons are built to close limits of precision

4. High-Quality Materials are used throughout the Chevrolet car—costly nickel steel, chrome-vanadium steels, chrome-nickel steels—to assure trouble-free, low-cost service for tens of thousands of miles.

Chevrolet's Owner's Service Policy is the most liberal ever offered in connection with a low-priced car

5. Economical Nationwide Service, with its low flat-rate charges on labor and genuine parts, is available at 10,000 dealers throughout the country, who also offer the protection of the most liberal owner's service policy ever to back a low-priced car.

Remember—in addition to all these basic economies—Chevrolet offers the extra dollars-and-cents advantage of one of the lowest delivered prices on the market. And this cost may be spread over a period of many months by the liberal G.M.A.C. plan.

Tamarack Talk

The Spring issue of Voices: a journal of verse is notable for both its excellent content of new poems and for the many good reviews and criticisms of recent publications of poetry. Edited by Harold Vinal, Voices is one of the outstanding magazines of contemporary verse. The editor, himself a poet of no little renown, has included in the new number of the journal poems of various moods.

The most important poem, it seems to use, is one by Isabel Fiske Conant, "Arraignment of Earth," in which Mrs. Conant chides mortals for their perfidy, their materialism, and their false pride in the worship of worldly goods. Mortals are on "to dark a path," and have thrown away their birthright. A long poem, it cannot all be here included. Two or three of the last stanzas will indicate the tone and quality:

Mortals, what have you made,
You, that were given the hills,
Towers for the purpose of trade
Stones, and opponent wills.
Missiles thrown at the soul
Of your pitiful fellow-man,
Pride is the end and the whole,
Since ever your cities began.
Cobbles instead of sweet grasses
That would open the wounds of the feet
Of any saviour that passes
Along the incredible street.
Pictures that feature the passions
Instead of the visions of man;
Shoe windows that haunt the fashions
Before a starving clan.
Abandon, abandon this town,
Lest higher and higher it spread,
Ill-savored of renown,
And Michael strike it dead.

Then, in the last line of the poem, Conant asks, "Was this star purgatory?"

Among the reviews (while we are still talking about Mrs. Conant) is one of "These Coloured Balls," the most recently published book of poems by her, brought out by Fowler Wright in London. The review is by Idella Purnell and the critic stresses the mental and spiritual qualities that are, she feels, everywhere in Mrs. Conant's verse. What might on the surface appear to be a harsh criticism of the poet's work is really praise. At the conclusion of the review, the writer says that Mrs. Conant's poems are "dry, bare, crisp, and lovelier so than if they were succulent and lush.

Harold Vinal includes three of his own poems in Voices. They are called "Paean", "Flight Into Ambush", and "Pilgrim"—the latter the longest and best of the three composed of two sonnets. Here is the concluding sestet:

He was not one of those elect who stand
Upon an Everest and there survey
A world in marble for whose eyes command
The trackless ocean; he was one to stay
Behind and dream of peaks where one is lost
In wilderness and everlasting frost.

Very properly, Mr. Vinal has placed the best of the reviews first under that heading. "Eclogues in Yankee" by E. Merrill Root is the best review we have seen on Robert Frost's "Collected Poems". Yet not so much is it a review as a brilliant criticism of Frost whom we believe to be the greatest poet of contemporary America. His point that it is dangerous for any poet to be acclaimed as "great" in his own time is excellently made. While those who are loudly shouted about, such as Millay, Robinson, Jeffers, Benet, are the "Eddie Guests of the Intellectuals", Robert Frost quietly and surely transcends them all, transcends the ephemera of the age, the fads, the fancies and the foppery.

Robert Frost certainly is superior to his times, he is greater than his age, and the critic in the review of which we are speaking finds Frost like the young Vergil of the "Georgics" of the idylls and eclogues but not the Vergil of the "Aeneid," the epic Vergil. He finds Frost more the descriptive, lyric, idyllic poet than the teller of tales. And, as we have said before, Frost's greatness rises out of his own self; his own character is thrust into keen, direct words, bringing forth poetry rich with color and fresh as new snow, alive with the magic, the mysticism that lies in his own soul.

If the Spring issue of Voices contained but this one review, it would be worth publishing, for, at least to us, it is the best bit of criticism on Robert Frost that has come to our attention in a long time.

Other reviews include "John Deth and Other Poems," by Conrad Aiken, "Lyric America", by Alfred Kreymborg, "Twentieth Century Poetry", by Drinkwater, Canby and Benet, "The Mountain in the Sky", by Howard McKinley Corning, "Fifty Poems", by Lord Dunsany, and many other new books of verse.

THE TAMING OF LONGSHOREMEN

Once upon a time it was considered unsafe—and probably was indiscreet—for ladies to be alone about the wharves, where the longshoremen did their work. Word is now going about that the once vicious and vituperative longshoresman is extinct. His place has been taken by a thoroughly reliable, respectful and not so outspoken, modern worker. The modern working girl, too, has invaded the region of the wharves in her quest for earning her own living by stenography, clerking, or any task of which she feels capable.

The longshoremen are a class "of laborers about the wharves of a seaport, especially in loading or unloading vessels." The name of longshoreman is an abbreviation for "alongshoreman", according to Webster's New International Dictionary, meaning simply a worker along the shore.

HINTS ON BUYING

"Filling the market basket with the recognized food essentials and luxuries may be added only if the food budget will permit" is the keynote in food purchasing for the home, says Theresa E. Wood, foods specialist for the Extension Service, University of Maine.

Before the market lists are made up, she continued, either meals are planned or the daily nutritional needs are considered. This should be based on one quart of milk for children, a pint of milk for adults, two servings of vegetables in addition to potatoes, one preferably a raw leafy vegetable, two servings of fruit, grain cereal, as breakfast food and bread, two servings of egg, meat or fish, and sufficient fat and carbohydrates for the day's energy needs.

Purchasing agents in large establishments buy staples in large quantities for months at a time and minor articles for a week or several weeks at a time. He also buys by grade, knows the size of containers that he wants and is familiar with the labels.

Good business principles in buying should be followed by the food purchasing agent of the home as well as of the large establishment. Some points to keep in mind are to buy with a list made up after considering the family's nutritional needs and the food on hand which must be used; to buy staples in large orders if storage space permits and perishable items once a week or oftener; to watch for price advantages on large orders; to buy according to size of containers, net weight and the information on the label, and to buy by grade selecting the quality best suited to the intended use of the article. Ask your grocer about grades, can sizes, flavors and values. He will gladly give you this information and will be interested in watching qualities and values for you.

ASSASSIN
A Drinker of Hashish!
In eleventh-century Persia, a secret order was founded by Hassan ben Sabbah, indulging in the use of the Oriental drug hashish, and, when under its influence, in the practice of secret murder. The murderous drinker of hashish came to be called hashash in the Arabic and from that origin comes our English word assassin!

The John Deere gives you everything you want in a tractor for your heavy farm jobs—adaptability, power, economy, light weight, simplicity, and accessibility. It supplies drawbar, belt, and power take-off service to reduce your labor costs, to do your work when it should be done, to give you more time for other duties or for recreation.
Investigate the John Deere fully. Ask any one you know who owns one. Come in and spend enough time with us to get to know this machine.

In Times Like These You Can't Afford to Guess

It is not intended as a boast when we tell you that more Wirthmore Poultry and Dairy Feeds are used in New England than any other commercial brand.

There are, for instance, sound reasons for the acceptance of Wirthmore 20% Dairy Feed by so many New England dairymen —sound reasons why the Wirthmore demand is increasing so rapidly at the present time when Dairymen everywhere are much more critical of their Dairy Feed purchases than ever before.

In times like these you can't afford to guess. You cannot buy Wirthmore efficiency for less than the Wirthmore price—and there's no sound reason for paying more.

If you are not now feeding Wirthmore 20% Dairy Feed Sweetened, you owe it to yourself to give it a thorough, unbiased trial.

PARIS WON CHAMPIONSHIP

Decisive Game Held Tuesday

South Paris High School baseball team won the Oxford County championship by defeating Norway 8 to 1, Tuesday afternoon. Timely hitting for Paris, was largely responsible for the outcome.

The schools were tied for first place at the end of their schedule last Saturday, so awarding the cup was a delicate problem. Both schools wanted a decision and the rubber game was agreed upon. Paris won the toss for location and the battle was staged on the athletic field at South Paris.

Norway displayed the right school spirit by taking over a long string of bleachers which were added to the seating facilities on the grounds. Probably the largest crowd ever assembled around that diamond watched the exciting game and went on the air whenever good plays worked out.

Norway was unable to solve Chet Pratt's delivery, and he held the outfit to three scattered bingles. On the other hand, Paris stepped hard on Lafrance and Coffin, bringing home eight hits, including a pair of two-sackers, and timely singles.

Paris started with a one-run lead from two drives. Two more scores earned in the fourth while Norway made their first crossing at this stage.

Air-tight baseball was the rule until the seventh, when Paris went into a hitting match. Four drives in succession and a series of fatal errors started a merry-go-round. Before the dust settled Paris had 5 runs salted in the pork barrel and a stronghold on the cup.

Norway held their ground after this jinx carnival and blanked the Parisites during the next two innings, but not in luck of scoring again. A number of chances looked good for filling part of the gap, but never went through to the home plate. Howe of Norway landed on Pratt for three bases and a single, Cordwell found a single. This was the extent of the visitors' stick offering.
